Education Matters

Education Matters is a weekly television program created by the Public School Forum to provide the public with real facts about public education in North Carolina and engage them in efforts to strengthen our schools. Each 30 minute show explores key topics in education, reviews education news headlines and recognizes education leaders in our communities. Although only a year old, Education Matters is making an impact. Here’s what people are saying:

“I appreciate that you consistently provide a space for practicing classroom teachers to share their opinions and expertise.”

-Courtney Sears, 2nd Grade Teacher, Raleigh, NC

“Having this show all across North Carolina is one of the best things that has happened in this state in a long time.”

-Former NC Governor Jim Hunt

“The very issue of education, as well as, the teaching profession, rarely receive the coverage deserved and this show is an attempt to move the issue to the forefront. Our schools, our students, our teachers, our legislators, and communities can all benefit from your efforts. As a retiree as well as fourth generation NC educator I send you my sincerest thanks. Keep up the good work.”

-Retired NC Teacher
